TACKLING THE OPIOID CRISIS IN A RURAL COMMUNITY

The Opioid Crisis is more than just a drug-related problem that affects opioid abusers; it is a public health and safety issue affecting families, coworkers, students and others throughout the community. It's a complicated public health issue and there are no easy answers.

Prescription opioids (pain medications like oxycodone or hydrocodone) can help with severe, acute pain or pain from illnesses like cancer. Taking opioids, especially for longer periods of time, can often do more harm than good. In addition to the serious risks of addiction, abuse, and overdose, the use of prescription opioids can have a number of side effects even when taken as directed, including tolerance (needing more for the same pain relief), physical dependence (symptoms of withdrawal when stopped), depression, and other unpleasant physical symptoms.

Research shows that some risk factors make people particularly vulnerable to prescription opioid abuse and overdose.

Opioid prescribing practices have contributed to the problem. One issue is the number of prescriptions.

In 2015, the amount of opioids prescribed was enough for every American to be medicated around the clock for 3 weeks. Another issue is that prescriptions were being written for too many days. Even at low doses, taking an opioid for more than 3 months increases the risk of addiction by 15 times. And finally, opioids were being prescribed at too high a dose. A dose of 50 morphine milligram equivalents (MME) or more per day doubles the risk of opioid overdose death, compared to 20 MME or less per day. At 90 MME or more, the risk of death increases 10 times.

In 2017, the U.S. Department of Public Health declared that a public health emergency exists nationwide as a result of the consequences of the opioid crisis in America. The federal government, state governments, health insurers, healthcare providers, and patients are all taking steps to address this crisis. Funding research, supporting prescription drug monitoring programs, reducing coverage barriers, changing prescribing practices, and considering non-opioid options for pain management are all tactics aimed at understanding, correcting, and preventing inappropriate use of opioids.

Dr. Greg Moore, current Medical Staff President at Barrett Hospital & HealthCare reports, "Locally, our providers are working together to follow the CDC guidelines for prescribing opioids. Fewer prescriptions, fewer days, and lower doses. We are turning to non-narcotic pain medicines, physical therapy, and behavioral therapy more and more. Many non-opioid treatments have been shown to control pain effectively with fewer risks and side effects. For acute pain, we are prescribing lower doses and only for the expected duration of pain severe enough to need opioids. Three days or less is often enough; more than seven days is rarely needed."

What can patients do to prevent opioid abuse?

Know your options and consider ways to manage your pain that do not include opioids. Never take opioids in greater amounts or more often than prescribed, never share opioids, store opioids in a secure place, and if you have unused prescription opioids at the end of your treatment, dispose of them at the local law enforcement drug take-back drop box.

RISK FACTORS FOR PRESCRIPTION OPIOID PAIN RELIEVER ABUSE AND OVERDOSE

Obtaining overlapping prescriptions from multiple providers and pharmacies.

Taking high daily dosages of prescription opioid pain relievers.

Having mental illness or a history of alcohol or other substance abuse.

Living in a rural community

COMMITTED TO Patient Experience

Basic human kindness is essential to healing, which is why we go to great lengths to instill and reinforce that understanding in our staff from the moment they join our team. Our service standards implicitly state expectations for how service excellence, safety and kindness are to be reflected in the care delivered to patients every day in every way. Pairing such compassion with the level of expertise you'll encounter from our providers, nurses, technologists, and other health professionals sets us apart from other healthcare organizations.

Patients are active participants in the care they receive at our facility—but our partnership with patients extends beyond their individual treatment plans.

The Patient and Family Advisory Council is an opportunity for patients, families, and caregivers to partner together to improve the services offered at Barrett Hospital & HealthCare. Patient and Family Advisory Council members share first-hand experiences and unique insights into our care processes that are invaluable. Together with key hospital leaders, this team of compassionate individuals helps to improve our patient services and programs and ensure the high quality of care that the community has come to associate with Barrett Hospital & HealthCare.

What if you could help a medical student pursue their dreams? Or give a breast cancer patient the latest treatment options?

Through the help of donors, Barrett Hospital Foundation is able to consistently give these opportunities back to the community—but it wouldn't be possible without you.

Every donation made to the Barrett Hospital Foundation and the Southwestern Montana Mammography fund makes a difference. The following stories prove that you don't need much to change someone's life.

“I want to thank the Foundation very much for allowing for me to be the recipient of this scholarship. This was not only a huge honor to be afforded this scholarship by a hospital and staff that had cared for me since birth, and a hospital that I had the privilege to work in. But, was also a huge help financially, alleviating some of the financial stress of my first year of medical school.”

— Zeke Koslosky

“This scholarship was a major opportunity for me to appreciate how much the local community of Dillon backs its students continuing to push for our success. This community has always helped out its students as much as possible from the excellent teachers in the school, to incredible opportunities like this. I want to thank Dr. Loge for his very generous contribution to my scholarship from his well-deserved honor as an outstanding medical educator.”

“I am proud to say that my daughter has joined them in their mission to help members of the community. She has been working with the Bras for a Cause Fundraiser for 3 years now, and has even chaired it the last 2 years. I am proud of her and very thankful of the Foundation for all that they do.”

“I used the money for gas to get to Bozeman for my chemotherapy treatments and for small everyday things we take for granted. I am happy to say I am back to work now.”

Scholarships

Zeke Koslosky and Paula Dreyer Babb were awarded the Ron Loge Medical Scholarship. Each awardee received a $7,500 scholarship to attend medical school.

Shara King and Jamie Harrison were awarded the Goodman Nursing Scholarship. Each received a $1,000 scholarship to attend nursing school.

Scout Voss was awarded the Ruth & Garth Haugland memorial scholarship. She received a $500 scholarship to attend Carroll College.

Mary Beth Wilson, Tanya Curtis, Ashley Engesser, and Jamie Harrison were awarded the Stefan Fabaz Memorial Scholarship. Each received a $1000 scholarship for continuing medical education.

Cancer Support

Southwestern Montana Mammography Program has provided complimentary breast health services to uninsured and under-insured men and women in Beaverhead, Madison, Jefferson, Silver Bow, and Lemhi Counties.

The program's primary focus has been breast cancer screening. However, the program has been expanded to assist cancer patients with travel and other expenses related to treatment.

DEAR COMMUNITY PARTNER:

From our modest beginnings in 1922, Barrett Hospital & HealthCare has been defined by passion—passion for our work and our mission in the communities that we serve. Providing compassionate care and putting people first, will remain the hallmark of Barrett Hospital & HealthCare, and for every team member in our organization. We're committed to growing our health care delivery services in a way that will benefit the people, health and wellbeing of the communities we currently serve and beyond.

HELPING TO DEFINE THE VALUE, AND UNDERSTANDING THE COST FOR DELIVERY OF CARE

Throughout this report, we have defined value in healthcare. In its simplest form, “value” is making sure that Barrett Hospital & HealthCare really gets patient safety, clinical quality, the patient experience, and access to care “right”. Value also includes controlling costs and keeping prices competitive for what people must pay for their healthcare. Focusing on balancing these factors allows our organization to center our efforts, decision making, and resource allocations to achieve our goals for improving value for patients.

READY TO SERVE

As our communities’ health care needs evolve, and the healthcare industry changes at a rapid pace, Barrett Hospital & HealthCare is aligning its strategies and action plans to continue to deliver high value care for patients both now and in the future, along with sustainable financial performance.

As we set our course, we regularly compare prices regionally and nationally to confirm that Barrett Hospital & HealthCare’s prices for delivery of health services remain very competitive. In addition, we continue to add more affordable health services such as home sleep studies and, at specified times during the year, lab services at reduced prices.

“We regularly compare prices nationally to confirm that Barrett Hospital & HealthCare's prices remain very competitive.”

“We look forward to impacting more lives, making a difference and improving the health of our communities.”

We are collaborating with regional and local healthcare providers and other partners to provide improved access to and coordination of needed care. We believe these kinds of conversations and collaborations are vital to the health and wellbeing of the communities we serve.

To keep up with the healthcare services landscape, we are adding additional specialty services that we can sustain in a community our size, to improve access to care locally for patients. And while Barrett Hospital & HealthCare is accomplishing many of these endeavors, we are humbled to be recognized as a national award-winning Critical Access Hospital for quality, safety and patient satisfaction.

In closing, thank you again for your trusted confidence in Barrett Hospital & HealthCare. As always, please continue to share your thoughts and ideas with us. We look forward to impacting more lives, making a difference and improving the health of our communities.

In good health,
